A COLD WINTER

Propheesied by the Wallapai Indians Near Kingman.

KINGMAN, Ariz., Dec. 1.—We are having a cold wave and weather early in the season. As early as November 15 the mountain tops above six thousand feet were covered with snow and a frosty morning followed.

The Wallapai prophecy that we will have a cold winter. For several winters past this tribe of Indians have lived in brush or rug shelters or out in the open air, but for a month past they have been busy building and fixing up good warm quarters. In talking with the old Indians, they tell me that next moon will be very cold, much colder than they ever experienced it, so they have built good warm huts.

Why should not an Indian of the Apache order be moved by instinct and foresee a hard winter? By nature these mountain Indians are more like beasts than human beings. They lived before the whites came upon what grew spontaneous, did not cultivate land, were always at war with each other and I am told that they frequently passed a cold winter with little food and would get hungry and many of the old and young would die; the bear, the coon, the groundhog and many other animals sleep for four or five months each winter. Although human in form, the Indians are more like the beasts in habit. Why should they not foresee a cold winter? The beasts, snakes and lizards in fact all of the sleepers have burrowed up. The birds that migrate south in the fall have all flown and none were to be seen the first of November. According to Indian prophecy the mercury will drop before Christmas in Los Angeles and Phoenix to zero or not below 10 above.

We will wait and see what happens and if Lo has made a false prophecy we will not listen to his prophecy again.

THE CARNIVAL ASSOCIATION.

Directors' Prospectus and Names of the Members.

Plans have been evolving during the past week for the management of the Phoenix carnival and especially as regards the procuring of the funds necessary to the most complete degree of success. Especially in reference to the latter point the following appeal to the public has been issued by the directors:

"At a meeting of the Phoenix Carnival association held December 3, 1895, the following financial policy was adopted:

"The membership fee of the association has been placed at $10, and it is the earnest desire of this association to reach a membership of 500 names.

"A financial committee consisting of George W. Hoadley, Frank Cox, B. N. Pratt, Aaron Goldberg, Pierce Evans and Gus Hirschfeld have been appointed to solicit membership, and we earnestly request that all interested in the welfare of Phoenix and the prosperity of the Salt River valley will lend us a helping hand and aid in the success of an enterprise that can be made the crowning event of our mid-winter season, and an annual affair that will advertise us from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"We only ask you for $10, payable in installments on or before February 1, 1896, and every business man, land owner and taxpayer cannot fail to see if he will for but a moment study the situation, that a carnival of this character with the many attractions we can offer, will revert to the prosperity of the Salt River valley many hundred fold.

"We take pleasure in presenting to you the names of our citizens who have kindly signed themselves as members of the Phoenix Carnival association, which list will be augmented from day to day and we trust that your name will be added to this list at once:

Francis C. Hatch, N. A. Morford, John O. Dunbar, T. J. Wolfier, E. F. Kellner, E. E. Ellinwood, Scott Helm, Pearce Evans, George W. Hoadley, L. H. Goodrich, A. Redewill, C. P. A RARE BIRD.

One of the Curiosities of the Territorial Insane Asylum.

Out at the insane asylum is a curiosity in natural history, a tame gander. It has one especial love, a harmless semi-idiotic patient who does much work on the grounds. From his exit from the house in the morning till very bed time, the great gander, a remarkably handsome bird, keeps at his heels, and the two occasionally commune together as though of a common language. On occasions when the patient has been kept within his feathered companion is disconsolate, wandering around the asylum and grounds in quest of him.

Not less singular than this affection for one man is the gander's aversion for another. A Chinaman, usually employed in the laundry, may not approach the fowl, which on sight makes the most savage attack on him, and with full ability to do bodily harm. The Chinaman is in almost constant fear of the gander, which, however, manifests only indifference to the other members of the great household.

As a pure and wholesome stimulant, for medicinal or family use, nothing equals the famous old Jessie Moore whisky, which is endorsed as the best by all who have used it. Moore, Hunt & Co., 404 Front street, San Francisco, sole agents for the Pa-

A LOCAL SANITARIUM.

Dr. Stroud has established on North Center street, just north of the Lamson college, a sanitarium wherein may be received the invalids who now are forced to reside at lodging houses or hotels, destitute of the peculiar needs of their class. The building is one especially suited for the purpose, roomy and sunny, and the popular physician expects to soon fill it from the large number of visiting invalids.

Water Rights

In the Grand canal for sale by CLARK CHURCHILL,
37 and 39 South Center street,
Phoenix, Ariz.

The author of "The Children of the Desert" assumes the pleasure of announcing to the public and to Phoenix in particular, that his issue of verses are on the market for sale at 30 cents a copy. It might not be out of place to openly declare that these poems would probably not have been issued had it not been for the kind words spoken to the author by a learned lady in California. She assured him that they were stars set in pearls to gem the future poetry of our country. Capt. Sullivan of the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle also admired the artless effluence so much that he frankly stated that the poem of "Despair" alone was sufficient to make the work famous. The little bound volume of poems may be found on sale at all the stationery stores. Why not send your mother, brothers, sisters and cousins (don't forget your mother-in-law) a copy for an Xmas present? Show them that alfalfa will produce poets as well as baseball, football and other fiends.

MR. YOUR ATTENTION ONE MOMENT.

We desire to introduce ourselves and our business to you, for no less a reason than that of telling you that the clothing of all mankind is our business. We carry everything for men and boys to wear, but shoes. We are an American House with one price only and that price is always marked as low as we can possibly mark it and in plain figures. Mr. Lane of THE REPUBLICAN, looking through our stock, made the remark, that if the people of Phoenix knew just how cheap they could buy men's and boys' clothes, hats, gloves and furnishings, how we would get their trade. We have a large sample and mail order department, especially for the people who cannot come to our store. It only costs you one cent to let us know your wants. Order anything in Men's suits from $5.95 for a splendid all wool rough black or blue cheviot suit or Kersey Overcoat up to the finest made. Boys' suits $2.50 to $15. Order anything you want to wear, we'll take good care of you. Let cash accompany order and state plainly what you want, size, color, etc.
